

Cities Grow To The West.

"The oldest part of a city is always the east side," said the real estate man one day when he was in a reflective mood, "and the newest part is always towards the westward. This strange rule applies all over the world."

"Nearly all the big seaports of the world are built on eastern shores, because this has allowed expansion of population toward the west, or, if such seaports are not approached from the east, they can be reached from the north or south, or have available land to the west of them for expansion and growth."

"The whole movement of mankind has been westward, anyhow, and the finest peoples have always progressed westward from the dawn of history, leaving the poorer classes behind them. Look at a country like Russia, which has to populate her land against the human instinct. Russian peasants will travel thousands of miles to get land in a strange country in our Western States or in Canada, because he is traveling westward toward home."

The Lash of a Friend

would have been about as welcome to A. Cooper of Oswego, N. Y., as a merciless lung-racking cough that defied all remedies for years. "It was most troublesome at night," he writes, "nothing helped me until I used Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me completely. I never coughed at night now." Millions know its matchless merit for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, lagrippe, asthma, hemorrhage, croup, whooping cough, or hayfever. It relieves quickly and never fails to satisfy. Miss Mosen has been convalescent some time, and will probably be discharged from Georgetown University Hospital, where she is a patient, within a few days. Mrs. Sallie Graham, the only other pellagra patient under treatment in Washington, died a few days ago.

"X" To "Y" Kills Child

Richmond, Va., Aug. 31.—Dr. John F. Wiza, who wrote the prescription which, in filling, is alleged, an error was made by Druggist William Warriner, causing the death of 3-year-old John Wilson, today stated before the coroner's jury, which is investigating the death, that the writing on the prescription had been tampered with. He stated that the letter "x" in the word "laxol" had been prolonged to resemble a "y," thus making it possible for the word "laxol" to be misread for "lysol," the latter being what was administered to the child. No reasons for the change of the writing were given.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is today the best known medicine in use for the relief and cure of bowel complaints. It cures griping, diarrhoea, dysentery, and should be taken at the first unnatural looseness of the bowels. It is equally valuable for children and adults. It always cures. Sold by Walton & Smoot.

Nine Watches Made In An Hour.

It is claimed that the method of manufacture adopted by one American company enable it to set up, ready for trial within an hour, no fewer than nine watches. This rapidity of manufacture has become possible by reason of the ingenious machinery invented for the making of all the parts of a watch.

The speed with which the various parts are turned out is truly remarkable. Great sheets of brass and steel are cut and rolled into ribbons and punched out into wheels at the rate of 10,000 a day from each punching machine. Workers drill the 31 holes in the roof of the watch as fast as they can count, other operatives counter-sinking the holes almost as quickly. Brass wire glides into a machine that measures off the length of a part, turns it, puts a screw head on each end and actually screws it in at the rate of 2,000 a day.

The screws are so small that it is said 50 gross of them can be put in a thimble, while of others there are 1,000 gross to a pound.

Balances are cut from the solid steel, ground down, worked up and drilled with their 25 screws holes apiece at the rate of 100 wheels a day from each machine.

Wheels have their teeth cut, a couple of dozen at a time, some with 60 to 80 teeth, at the rate of 1,200 wheels a day from each machine.

Your kidney trouble may be of long standing, it may be either acute or chronic, but whatever it is Foley's Kidney Remedy will get rid of it quickly and restore your natural health and vigor. "One bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy made me well," said J. Sibbald of Grand View, Wis. Commence taking it now. Schmitt's Drug Store.

Investigators Surprised and Pleased

Scores of Impressive and Convincing Proofs.

From the Fort Wayne "Journal-Gazette": A committee of investigators visited the Root Juice laboratory and were very much surprised at the enormous business the company is doing with the great medical discovery that is leading wonders for thousands of people throughout the world. The manager produced scores of letters of praise and thanks from people living in almost every part of the country, but the most impressive and convincing letters were from druggists of Indiana and Ohio. All spoke of the remarkable satisfaction Root Juice was giving their customers, and many of them wrote that their Root Juice sales were the largest of any medicine they ever handled. R. C. Wood, a druggist of Frankfort, Ind., sent some testimonials from some of his personal friends whom Root Juice had cured. One of the testimonials reads like a fairy tale, but all were undoubtedly genuine and conclusive proof that Root Juice well deserves the great praise it is getting. It seems to cure the most stubborn cases of rheumatism and kidney trouble, and its healing and tonic actions on the stomach, bowels and liver, is usually so sure and rapid that all who suffer from indigestion and catarrh of the stomach and bowels, nervous weakness and general run down condition, after taking Root Juice a short while, praise the remedy and persuade their sick friends to try it.

The remedy is well known in these parts, and many of our citizens have tried it, and seem to think there is no medicine on earth like it. And so many local people have recommended the remedy, they have great confidence in its merits. At Walton & Smoot's drug store.

BEEES AND BEE KEEPING

IN BEE SWARMING TIME.

Spray the Colony Lightly with Cold Water Before Hiving.

I practice several ways of hiving swarms, but will describe only one here, writes an expert. If the swarm has clustered on the outer edge of some tree, where it necessitates the cutting of a thin branch, I prefer this plan; provided, of course, they are within reach of my ladder. I have found it to be an excellent plan, and consequently have practiced it for many years, to spray a swarm lightly with cold water before hiving. Water seems to be very refreshing and soothing to the bees during the heat of the excited swarming fever, and will often cause the bees to remain hanging until evening, when it is more convenient to hive them. By taking pruning shears and clipping off the branch gently they may be carried to the front of the hive and shaken into it, and assume possession. Newly hived swarms should be shaded for a few days and the hive entrance enlarged to supply sufficient ventilation. The section boxes should be transferred from the parent hive to the one containing the newly hived swarm, which now has almost all of the field bees. The parent hive being so depleted will have no further use for sections for a month or more.

After the prime swarms issues put it on the old stand, setting the other colony close beside it. In five to seven days remove the mother colony to a new location and the field bees will desert it and join the swarm. The depletion and the fact that no honey is coming in discourage any idea of foraging in the production of extracted honey is not a very difficult matter, as the putting on of upper stories not only keeps down swarming but secures the crop, all in one operation. It all hinges on the one essential, large hives. Of course, I keep the entrance wide open during the warm season, and if the bees still show signs of being crowded by hanging out during the heat of the day I raise up the back end of the cover, and this gives such a draft through the hive that they will usually go in. Do not let your bees hang out during the honey season; after the season closes they will usually cluster on the outside of the hive in large quantities. If the weather still keeps warm, but as the swarming season closes with the honey season there will be no swarming. Plenty of comb space must at all times be available for the bees to store their honey. This condition is secured with a ten-frame upper story filled with combs of the Langstroth size.

How to Prevent Swarming.

There are several conditions upon which the issuing of swarms hinge. The first and most important factor is a present honey flow; another is a multitude of bees. Excessive heat and a crowded hive are also incentives to induce swarming, and will hasten the exodus. Now, in order to retard or discourage swarming we must meet these conditions. The method that I have been practicing is to furnish each colony of bees an extra hive of empty combs—that is, at the approach of swarming time, or a week or two after the section boxes have been placed on top of the hive proper, I slip an extra hive body of empty combs under each hive and close the upper entrance, compelling the bees to take possession of the extra set of combs. This gives a double brood nest for the queen to supply with eggs. This has proved with me to be only a partial success. About one-half of the colonies swarm notwithstanding. But nevertheless the plan is a good one, my average yield exceeding that of any previously tried method. I might say that the colonies which had no thought of swarming stored the most surplus honey, one colony reaching 180 pounds; but with regard to those which did swarm, the swarms were necessarily extra large ones on account of the double brood nest, and of course, issued a few weeks later, but gave excellent results.

The Second Swarm.

When a prime swarm issues, if the colony is strong and circumstances are favorable a second swarm may be expected a week or ten days after. If the queen cannot accompany the first swarm the bees will continue the attempt to swarm, sometimes every day, sometimes not so often. But when a young queen emerges then the old one is disposed of.

Profit from a Hive.

One year with an other, a man or woman, (there are a great many lady beekeepers now in this country) ought to realize from $7 to $15 each from a hive of bees and perhaps double the number of hives. This is a conservative estimate.

Bees By Express.

Bees can be expressed in the latest up-to-date standard Langstroth hives. Never buy patent hives with irregular fixtures.
